Date Set For Kite Festival

Carmel's Annual Kite Festival will be held on Sunday, March 19, on the High School athletic field, Ernest Calley, major-domo, told The Pine Cone this week. At the same time he announced his committee: Mayor Fred Godwin, P. A. McCreery, Mark Raggett and Cliff Cook. Others will be appointed later.

Youngsters will begin work on kites in Calley's shop at Sunset School about the middle of February. Adults may start work on theirs at any time in the wood-working classes at adult school, or if they prefer, wait until February and come at a time, to be specified later, during the day to the shop at Sunset.

The Filipino Community is invited to enter fighting kites as they have done in former years. A special prize will be offered for this classification, Calley said.

All city departments will co-operate, police in organizing the parade, fire and street departments in furnishing transportation for the kite flyers; the art gallery will be represented by at least one member among the judges in the "prettiest" kite class.

And That's How McEwen Keeps His Girlish Figure

Carmel Police Officer Arthur McEwen seems to have an affinity for burned steak—but not his own.

Several weeks ago The Pine Cone reported his terse comments on being called away from his dinner to investigate reports of a fire at a neighboring residence. The fire turned out to be in a barbecue pit, where a large steak was burning merrily. There was smoke in his eyes and wrath in his heart as he returned to his cold plate.

Tuesday evening of this week McEwen had just sat down to a doubtlessly well-earned dinner when the phone rang. He put down his fork and gazed thoughtfully for a moment at the hot victuals before him before answering.

Ten minutes later he arrived at the Frank Townsend residence at San Antonio and Santa Lucia, a Fire Department extinguisher in his hands. Sure enough, another steak! He could smell it as he opened the door. The kitchen was filled with smoke and excited people, and the broiler was belching flames like a small but petulant volcano. To turn off the gas and extinguish the steak was only a matter of minutes, but all the while McEwen's mind was busy with rapid calculations. Ten minutes to make a report. Five minutes to get home. Perhaps—but in his heart he knew he was beaten.

"...not able to find the valve on the stove, we shut off the gas at the meter and put out the steak," ends his laconic report. "Damage was confined to stove and steak."

Whether McEwen had steak for dinner that night is not known; but whatever he had, it's safe to bet that it was lot cooler than his disposition.

Long Love Affair Recorded In New Exhibit

BY MARY-MADELEINE RIDDLE

Abel Warshawsky is in love with Paris, and has been for a long time. The exhibition of his latest work, painted during a recent visit to France, currently being shown at the Carmel Art Association Galleries in the main gallery, leaves no doubt about that. One leaves the exhibit as much made happy by the emotional impressions of the paintings as one is impressed by the consummate skill which created them.

Getting out from under

Some old smarty once said, "Son, if you want to be a success, get into debt up to your ears and then work out of it." He should be around here to watch our Carmel Lions Club. They wanted so badly the high school swimming pool to be heated, that they underwrote the cost, $7,500. Every member signed a personal note for $150 and those notes will be taken up in June if the Club as a whole has not by then raised the pledge. The cold breath of spring is blowing down the back of the boys' necks and are they working! They put on a Don Blanding Poetry Night and a Dinner Dance. The Fashion Show is coming up Saturday, January 29. The Occidental Glee Club will be here in February, and maybe a play will be put on by the members at Sunset (Continued on Page Four)

For Warshawsky's love for Paris, and for France as a whole, is no light or brief infatuation. If not quite as complex and many sided as a marriage, it has a depth, a tenderness, a solidity which comes of long knowledge. Though there is no particular expose of the seamy side of things, a newsstand in the rain, a narrow village street hold as much enchantment as castles and statues and bridges. If over many of the pictures of Paris there broods the range of twilight blues and mauves which Warshawsky does so well, it is not a facile and sentimental veil, but rather a lyric, poetical feeling which may blur some of the harsher outlines but acknowledges their existence. And that's the way a good love should be, isn't it?

This one man show is particularly interesting because it shows more than one facet of the painter. In addition to the Sketches of Paris and the group under General, there are several Small Portraits, and a group of Fantasies. Of course the news in the exhibit it not that Warshawsky loves France, or that he paints his love exceedingly well, but that here is a mature and accomplished artist, still growing. You may or not like (Continued on Page 13)

Miss Mary Smith Donates Indian Collection To Aid Needy Navajo Children

Miss Mary Smith has offered the large collection of Indian handiwork which belonged to her sister, the late Miss Isabel Smith, to be sold for the benefit of constructive work for Navajo children being carried on by the Save the Children Federation. The offer was made at the meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer on Tuesday afternoon. The collection's value is uncertain, but it is insured for one thousand dollars.

Occidental College Glee Club's Concert Sponsored By Lions

Sponsored by the Carmel Lions Club, the Occidental College Glee Club will present a concert at Sunset School Auditorium at 8:30 p. m., Friday, February 4. Net proceeds will go into the fund for heating equipment at the Carmel High School swimming pool project.

Lloyd Weer, in charge of arrangements for the event, said the program will feature both men and women vocalists. Selections will be both classical and contemporary.

Bixler Puts Out The Boxes For Annual March Of Dimes

The March of Dimes, infantile paralysis fund campaign, opened this week in Carmel when working-committee-of-one Ernest Bixler distributed 50 collection boxes throughout the business district Monday. Opening officially January 15, the national campaign will be on for two weeks.

Because of last year's polio epidemic, when the organization paid out more than $20,000,000, funds are exhausted this year and the need is greater than ever before, Bixler said. That the March of Dimes has been worth while is shown by the fact that Monterey County statistics list only one infantile paralysis death in 1948, he added. At a promotional meeting in Salinas last week, members of the campaign committees were told that largely through the efforts of the organization, fatal cases have been reduced to an average of one in 20.

Robert Frisbie's Children Stranded In South Sea Island; Hope For Big Sale Of Late Father's Forthcoming Novel

By 1920 Robert Dean Frisbie had read every available book on the South Seas, and visions of lush palm groves and warm lagoons floated before his eyes as he pecked out news stories for the Fresno Morning Republican. He hunched his lean frame over a typewriter and dreamed of soft-eyed native girls and the liquid accents of the Polynesian tongues, and tried to save his money. He was 24, and life was slipping past him.

That year his chance came: a job on a sleek white copra schooner that threaded through the Samoas, the Fijis, and the Cooks. After several voyages Frisbie settled on Puka Puka, an atoll north of Pago Pago, married Ngatokou-rua Kaitapuaa, and opened shop as a trader. A year later his first child was born and his first book was published. The children, a sturdy brown-skinned lot named Charles Mataa, Florence ("Johnny") Nga, William Hopkins, and Elaine M. Ngatakoruaimataua, kept pace with the books until his wife died in childbirth in 1939. Besides serials and short stories of island life for The Atlantic Monthly and other magazines, Frisbie published The Book of Puka Puka (1929), A Kanaka Voyage (1930), The Tagua Sails North (1930), My Tahiti (1937), Mr. Moonlight's Island (1939), The Island of Desire (1944), and Amaru (1945), best of which were non-fiction accounts of Polynesian life.

CARMEL-BOULDER CREEK IN CAGE CLASH TONIGHT

With victories over Salinas and King City tucked away during the past two weeks, the Carmel Padres return to their home court tonight and play host to the Boulder Creek hoop squads. Lightweight action gets under way at 7 o'clock, with the varsities taking over at 8. Boulder Creek always plays a hustling brand of ball and can be counted on to take the lead during the first quarter. In all their games this year the Cougars have started with a rush and have led their opponents at the end of the first heat. Lack of reserves has slowed down their fast break and the larger schools have been nipping them at the finish. Pacific Grove, Salinas, Gonzales, Santa Cruz, and King City had to come from behind to edge the scrappy Cougars. Carmel's Padres have played steady ball in their last two engagements to compile a winning streak of two straight. Better team play has been a vital factor in the improved showing of the Padres. Steve Whitaker and Jim Hare have developed into a fine pair of offensive and defensive guards, while the floor work of Vandervort, Gargiulo, and Laugenour has developed to a degree of smoothness. Ability to hit their free throws has given the Carmel point-making a boost. In the King City fray, the Padres hit 10 in 13 attempts, which is a good college average.

The Padrecitos are angling for their first league victory tonight, and, off their showing in practice, should take the measure of the little Boulders. Tough breaks have dogged the Red and Gray lightweights all season and their luck is about to change. All their games excepting Salinas, have been close and hard-fought, but the score has been balanced toward the opponents. Look for the local lightweights to upset a few of them on the second swing around the league.

CARMEL BASKETBALL TEAMS SPLIT WITH KING CITY

Winning the varsity game, 26 to 22, and losing the lightweight tilt, 28 to 21, gave the local prep cagers an even break in their journey to King City last Friday evening. In the lightweight joust, the Padrecitos didn't get going until the final quarter when they showed through 12 points. However, the Ponies had established too big a lead for the fast-closing Carmel Babes. The Carmel lads tanked 10 field goals, while King City picked up 7 from the floor, but the Ponies made good on 14 free throws out of 26 chances, while Carmel hit 1 for 9. O'Shea, Overin, Daniels and Burgess picked up 4 points apiece to pace the Padrecito scorers. Thompson, Updike, Artellan, and Emery also saw action for the Carmel lightweights.

With all players breaking into the score column, the Padre varsity took the lead in the first quarter and were never headed. While their little brothers couldn't beg, borrow, or steal a free throw, the varsity missed only three out of 13 attempts. Dick Gargiulo cashed in one five for six and Lee Laugenour hit three for four. Laugenour, with 7 points, was top scorer for the night. Vandervort, Whitaker, Laugenour hit for field goals in the first heat and Gargiulo dropped in four free throws to give the Padres a four point margin which they held throughout the game. Fine defensive play by Whitaker and Hare held the high-scoring King City forwards in check, while the rebounding of Vandervort and Laugenour gave the Padres ball control.

CCAL B DIVISION FOOTBALL SCHEDULE SET

At a recent meeting of the CCAL board of managers, the 1949 football schedule was drawn up with a very important change for the schools in the B division. As there are only four schools in this division, the board voted to play on a home-and-home basis with all teams playing each other twice. This will do away with the scramble to schedule practice games outside the league and will alleviate the travel situation where it has been necessary to make trips up to 150 miles to find equitable competition. The schedule is devised to allow natural rivals the Armistice Day spot. Carmel will play Pacific Grove at PG next Armistice Day and the following year the game will be held here. The winner of the Football Shoe Trophy will be decided in the Armistice Day game.

Dr. Billie's Garden

By L. A. W.

It seems quite amazing but stuff for the spring garden has to be in the ground by late January or early February. Do you like new potatoes and green peas? They take about a hundred days to mature at this time of year, so hustle out and get them planted.

Then there's early salad makings, lettuce, of course, onion sets, of course, garlic—well you be the judge. Turnips, mustard, endive, sorrel (that lives through the winter), and every good cook demands parsley for salad, for seasoning and for garnish. Don't be too impatient if the parsley seeds fail to sprout for three or four weeks. They have their times and their seasons.

Perhaps radishes have a gustatory appeal. They like cool weather and come popping out of the ground within a week from planting. They hustle along into maturity also and so need succession planting. What a delight is their sharp snap and peppery, pungent taste as they come fresh out of the soil. Like folks, though, there is sometimes one too peppery and too snappish. (Which reminds me, what about those dandelion greens you were going to raise for me this spring, Gramp, to go with the radishes and young onions, and the sour-sweet, hot-bacon-fat salad dressing? B.)

The garden calendar says, too, this is the time to plant tomato seeds in boxes for transplanting to flats. Seems pretty early, but there it is. These seeds, you know, have a slow reaction time. It's about three to four weeks before they germinate and the seedlings grow at freight train speed.

A fairly quick germinator and grower is chard, a vitamin-laden green for cooking. A few leaves, raw, in a green salad, some turnip tops, a bit of leaf lettuce, a few young radishes and green onions, a goodly flavor of garlic with piquant olive oil dressing is a company dish any day. But you have to catch 'em young to have them at their best. Not so the cheese that provides the protein; have it ripe and well-aged. The wine, too, if your stomach needs and your conscience permits. And don't forget the crusty loaf of French or Italian bread. Plenty of all these and you are ready for another half-day of garden digging so as to raise some more.

There are folks who enjoy broccoli and early spring cabbages. They probably sowed seeds for these a couple of weeks ago but it isn't too late for these even yet.

Flowers are pretty
'till they die
then's the time to have us by.

City To Abandon Intersection At Del Mar And Eighth

In spite of Carmel's building boom and heavier traffic, the natural sand dunes and sea coast aspects near the foot of Ocean Avenue shall be preserved, the City Council decided at an adjourned meeting last week. First steps in abandonment proceedings for a portion of the non-existent intersection at Del Mar and Eighth were taken Thursday afternoon, when City Attorney William Hudson was authorized to draft preliminary documents.

Although the move will have little effect on the present arrangement, whereby the area is used as a parking space for beach visitors, City Clerk Peter Mawdsley pointed out to The Pine Cone yesterday that the proposal will to a large measure forbid future provisions for through traffic. Property will continue to belong to the city.

The abandonment question was brought up Thursday when Ralph Stean, Carmel Valley contractor, appeared on behalf of Edward Haber and Andrew Robertson, owners of two building sites at Eighth and Del Mar, to request opening of 80 feet of Eighth Avenue between San Antonio and Scenic as a construction driveway. Permission for the opening was granted, with a provision that the petitioners give a quit claim deed to the city for that portion of Eighth adjacent to their property, to be valid in the event of eventual abandonment.

Indications were that the city may hold the 25-foot wide strip open in the future as a fire lane, to be used by trucks and equipment to gain access to Scenic Road from San Antonio. At present the only connecting street between Scenic and San Antonio is Thirteenth, leaving seven blocks of beach homes inaccessible to fire equipment in the event of a traffic snarl.

By virtue of a three months' "firm" bid, the Texas Company was granted the city gasoline contract Thursday. Although three of the six bids submitted were for equal amounts, the "firm" clause, providing for a fixed per gallon rate for the next 90 days in spite of expected price jumps, qualified the company as best bidder.

Church of the Wayfarer

The next meeting to mend, sew and pack for World Relief will take place in the Parish House of the Church of the Wayfarer at 2:00 p. m., Thursday, January 27.

Francis Barnes, baritone, will sing the role of Figaro when the Pacific Opera Company presents The Barber of Seville, 8:15 to-night, at Sunset Auditorium.

HOLLYWOOD WRITER TO SPEAK

Next Tuesday evening, Morton Grant of Slate Springs will address Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's current literature group on The Writer in Hollywood. This is a subject he is able to cover thoroughly because he spent many years writing screen scripts.

His first work was with Warner Brothers, and his most recent script appeared in the moving picture, The Gallant Blade. One of his most interesting assignments, he states, was the adaptation of the Uncle Remus Stories for Walt Disney's Song of the South.

Those wishing to hear Mr. Grant speak should be at Room 11, Sunset School, at 7:30 p. m., January 25. The Carmel Adult School presents these discussions without charge to the public.

Barber Of Seville Plays Tonight At Sunset Auditorium

The Barber of Seville, Rossini's comic opera in three acts, will be presented tonight at 8:15 in Sunset Auditorium by the Pacific Opera Company, directed by Arturo Casiglia. With one exception the cast will be the same that recently achieved a brilliant success in the San Francisco Opera House. Norma Podesta Andreotti, coloratura soprano, will sing the role of Rosina. Miss Andreotti had the good fortune of being heard on the air by Arturo Toscanini, who requested an audition and chose her to sing the soprano solo in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony with the NBC Symphony which he conducted at Carnegie Hall and which was broadcast from coast to coast. She subsequently sang the same work with the San Francisco Symphony, conducted by Pierre Monteaux.

Joseph Tissier, as the Count of Almaviva, Francis Barnes as Figaro, the Barber of Seville, and Imogene Cornwell as Bertha, Rosina's governess, will be remembered for their fine singing in the opera series given last fall in the Forest Theater. The balance of the cast includes Randolph Griffith as Dr. Bartolo, Doris Bistrisky as Don Basilio, Edward McKenna as Fiorello, and a Notary, Serenaders, (Carmel's own) and Policemen.

Casiglia will conduct the orchestra composed of San Francisco Symphony musicians.

On Friday evening, January 28, Robert Brereton, pianist, will be presented at Sunset Auditorium by Alice Seckels and Franklyn Dixon, the third attraction in their series, which included Spivakovsky and the Paganini String Quartet.

Brereton made a successful debut at Town Hall, New York, three years ago. Last April Pierre Monteux brought him to the coast for four appearances with the San Francisco Symphony. In addition to his concert in Carmel, this month he will play in Berkeley, Santa Barbara, and with the Oakland and Pasadena Symphonies.

He is a graduate of the University High School at Berkeley, studied piano with Alma Schmidt Kennedy of Mills College, Arthur Rubenstein and won a fellowship under the late Olga Samaroff at the Julliard Graduate School for three years in succession. He is a graduate of Julliard.

NOTICE OF RATE CHANGE

JOE'S TAXI SPEAKING "WE HAD TO GIVE IN"

Our taxi rates have remained unchanged for many years.

Through three waves of price increases—for gasoline, tires, repairs, and everything—we have tried to continue these rates and still operate soundly.

Now we realize it can no longer be done.

To distribute the higher cost most evenly among all the friends we carry here and there, we plan, on FEBRUARY FIRST next, to ADD FIVE CENTS for each unit of Carmel service—

"A NICKEL MORE ON A RIDE."

With this modest increase we believe we can continue to deliver the class of service which has made our taxi fleet a local institution. We shall do our best.

We thank Carmel for its unfailing co-operation.

We find it a pleasure to serve you.

Editor, The Pine Cone:

In a recent issue of The Pine Cone, in which I reviewed the Asilomar Conference of the World Affairs Conference, I stated that a conflict seemed to be brewing between the Atomic Energy Commission and the military over censorship of atomic information. There were many evidences that some military leaders were seeking to suppress atomic news, fearing that the public might panic should atomic war come. And Chairman David Lillienthal, of the Atomic Energy Commission, publicly criticized "some military men and some scientists who are playing down the bomb."

I am glad to report that this conflict appears to have been eliminated by common agreement between Chairman Lillienthal and Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal. Both assure me that, save for the purpose of keeping vital information from a potential enemy, they highly approve discussions of atomic weapons and problems, by citizens. Chairman Lillienthal writes, "Your efforts to bring together atomic specialists to take part in an educational program is most praiseworthy. There is nothing in our security regulations to inhibit such discussion, of course, providing it does not involve restricted information as defined by the Atomic Energy Act, which seems very unlikely."

Secretary Forrestal writes, "The federal government cannot, nor does it desire to, muzzle citizens in their discussion of these vital subjects. It is out of such discussions, as well as official pronouncements, that public opinion is formed in a democracy."

Sincerely,
Zenas L. Potter.

Modern Parents Tense, Confused, Speaker Tells AAUW

Meeting at the Monterey Peninsula College on Wednesday evening, the American Association of University Women heard Dr. Jean Grambs of the education faculty of Stanford University discuss the problems of child training and personality development which today confront the parents of small families. The speaker pointed to the drop in average size of families in this country from virtually six in 1790 to just under four in 1940 as a factor in the increase in self-centered individuals who do not fit into the democratic society of the country.

Having only one or two children upon whom to expend their attention and affection, and also somewhat disturbed by the textbooks on child training, the parents become too intense as well as uncertain in relation to their children. The nursery school has value in leading the small child into a social environment such as earlier generations with larger families experienced. Organizations for older children continue training children in living together, but the problem of the parents is still not satisfactorily met. School teachers also have to meet the difficulties in training the child that has not learned to share favors and attention at home. Questions and discussion followed the talk. Mrs. Hiram Bishop, chairman of child study, was in charge of the program.

At the business meeting, Mrs. Norman Naas, president, announced an open meeting for February 26, to which all women's organizations and Peninsula school teachers will be invited. The speaker will be Mrs. Margaret Cormack, who is active in UNESCO and was a visitor to the Peninsula early in the fall. Plans for a rummage sale to be held in Monterey on February 4 and 5 were announced. Funds will be used for scholarships for girls graduating from Peninsula high schools, and for other projects of AAUW. Members are urged to give articles that are still usable but which they no longer need, and to be ready to assist in the work of collecting, marking, and selling.

Light refreshments were served by Mrs. Gordon Beall and her assistant hostesses, Mrs. Orville Rogers, Mrs. Charles McHarry, and Mrs. D. D. Stofor, for a social half hour at the close of the meeting.

School later. We're not wishing the Lions any hard luck, but we can't help thinking that if they don't raise all the money needed on these other projects they will have to give the play, and we want to see a Lloyd Weer directed play, with a cast 100 per cent Lion. If we could have some assurance that the play would be put on no matter what, even if they do raise the money without it, then we could put more enthusiasm into the typewriter ribbon when we urge everybody to go to the Fashion Show, which will be typically Carmel, in other words, different, exceeding different from any fashion show that ever was. It is also going to be fun.

DESERTER, TOO

Milton "Chris" Randle, Carmel bartender who has been lodged in the county jail since November 29, when he gave himself up at the Deputy District Attorney's office as a fugitive from bad check charges, was said by military authorities Wednesday to be an Army deserter. He was identified as Lt. Milton V. Chrisman, Jr., stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington, until his desertion in February, 1946.

Chrisman will be turned over to military courts for trial on desertion charges before finishing his sentence. He was convicted on a bad check complaint filed by a Monterey merchant several months ago, one of several in Carmel and Monterey, police said.

LEIDIG REPORTS BACK

Fire Marshal Bob Leidig reported to City Clerk Peter Mawdsley yesterday that he has warned the residents on Fifth street between Junipero and Torres that it is illegal to burn trash in an uncovered pit that was originally dug to hold a garbage can. Also, the proprietor of the Carmel Laundry has agreed to move the lumber that has been stacked on the sidewalk at his place of business.

Attention of the city council was called to the fire hazards by Bettie Greene, and Fire Marshal Leidig was asked to check.

Returning From France

Friends of Mrs. Rene Schickel, widow of Alsatian writer Rene Schickel, will be happy to know that she plans to return to Carmel some time in March or April for an extended visit. Mrs. Schickel is well remembered as a resident here during the war.

Returned Carmelites

Mr. and Mrs. John (Bud) Todd, with their children, Gregory and Marcia, have been visiting with the senior Todds at their Carmel street home since Christmas.

No Hard Ridin' Buckaroo Is This Deputy Sheriff

If you happened to be driving past the Peninsula Community Hospital Tuesday afternoon, you may have noticed a sheriff's deputy trying to round up three cows on Highway No. 1. If you were close enough, you may even have seen the madness in his eye.

It all began when an unidentified woman motorist drove into downtown Carmel to inform Officer Andy Del Monte that the animals were loose. Carmel police called the Monterey Sheriff's office, explaining cheerfully that the area was out of their jurisdiction. Deputy Edward Thornburg was sent to round up the bovine traffic hazards.

A few minutes later the Carmel police radio began to crackle with the voice of a determined but harassed peace officer. It was Thornburg, explaining that he had parked his car and had made several unsuccessful attempts to get the animals off the highway.

"Please try to find the owner, even if this is out of your jurisdiction," he begged. Carmel police told him to keep smiling, and began making phone calls.

After the second unsuccessful call, Thornburg crackled in on the radio again, his voice trembling. He reported no progress. The cows were frisking happily back and forth across the white line, he said, and he was losing his usually even disposition.

After several progressively more desperate appeals from the wind-ed officer, owner Thomas F. Riley of Point Lobos was reached and set out to reclaim his property. Deputy Thornburg headed back over the hill as speedily as is legal, observers said.

"He sure was in a lather," Carmel police chuckled.

COLLISION

Cars driven by Raymond Lane Weaver, Oakland, and Helen G. Noble, Hatton Fields, collided at Ocean and Mission yesterday morning, with no injuries. Officer Andy Del Monte directed the traffic snarl until one of the cars could be towed to a garage. Both were 1946 Chrysler sedans.

Salvation Army Launches Annual Appeal For Funds

The Salvation Army this week launched its annual appeal under the leadership of George H. Schuyler, Carmel. Committee members for the Monterey Peninsula are: George H. Schuyler, chairman, J. E. Abernethy, treasurer, Carmel; G. H. Burnette, treasurer, Monterey; Harold E. Davis, treasurer, Pacific Grove; and H. T. Cross, T. A. Dorney, Peter J. Ferrante, C. M. Goldsworthy, Fred F. Horne, R. G. Mason, Fred H. Moore, Loren E. Smith, E. H. Traxler and Peter Mawdsley.

"By your gift you extend a helping hand to that host of individuals, representing many needs, who find help under the roof-tree of the Salvation Army," Mr. Schuyler said. "We ask your liberal support of the 'once a year' appeal. The Salvation Army does not receive support from the Monterey Peninsula Community Chest. "The Salvation Army does not authorize tambourine collections in this community. The workers that will call during the drive will show credentials signed by Mr. Abernethy."

Our Congressman Writes Home

By Ernest Bramblett
President Truman must have caught the spirit of Washington's inauguration mood when he presented us with the biggest peace-time budget in history—nearly 42 billion dollars.

I do not criticize in general terms—he has problems, most important among them the maintenance of world peace. This I deem vital—to keep our national defenses strong.

However, my colleagues and myself on both sides of the aisle want value for every dollar spent, and do not intend to give the executive branch a blank check on spending taxpayers' money.

Why do I advocate economy in view of the fact his new budget contains $6,000,000 for construction of the Santa Barbara project? It's one of our many western projects needed for development, and will result in new business and additional tax revenues to the government.

Prune from the non-essential, and we will have more for jobs of this kind. We in Congress especially feel we should be watchful of expenditures. The President has proposed some four billions to meet increases—to come from a tax-burdened people!

As a member of the house committee on agriculture, I propose, with members of the California congressional delegation, to push a program fully utilizing the state's canned goods in the European recovery program. California taxpayers are making a sizable contribution toward the program—they should share in the benefits. We are taking a non-partisan approach to this California problem—in a state that rates canning as one of its most important industries.

What do Pine Cone readers think of their Congressman's stand on the above matters? We appreciate it greatly when you use the columns of The Pine Cone for your expression of opinion.

"Mirandy" Speaker For Garden Club Meeting Tonight

The Monterey Peninsula Garden Club, which has always included many Carmel residents among its membership, will hold its first meeting of the new year at 8 p. m. tonight, January 21, at the Women's Civic Club in Pacific Grove (on Grand street behind the Museum.)

The speaker will be "Mirandy," well known lecturer and radio personality from the Los Angeles area, whose subject is "Continuous bloom in the garden from vines, shrubs and annuals." Since most Carmel gardens are looking pretty seedy after the recent frosts, the subject is a timely one.

In line with recent policy, the speaker will be presented first, and the business meeting afterwards.

Garden Club membership is open to any interested gardener on the Monterey Peninsula, and dues, payable at the January meeting, are low. The club meets regularly the third Friday of every month, and presents lectures and discussions of general gardening interest.

A popular feature of each meeting has been the plant sales table, which offers for sale members' surplus plant material. This month there will be bulbs, tubers, potted plants, and anything else the frost may have missed.

Mrs. Stuart Mitchell of Carmel is the newly elected corresponding secretary. Other new officers are Mrs. Frank Wilkinson, president; Mrs. W. Robertson, vice-president and program chairman; Mrs. Francis Hopper, recording secretary; Homer Hoyt, treasurer; Mrs. W. M. O'Donnell, membership and hospitality; Mrs. F. L. Knudsen, plant exchange and exhibition; and Mrs. Ted Durein, publicity.

HEALTH STUDY GROUP

League of Women Voters group that is studying health facilities in Monterey County, met last Friday at the home of Mrs. Lee O. Kellogg on Scenic Drive and decided to meet there again in two weeks, January 28, at 2:00 p. m. Mrs. Ferdinand Haasis is leading the study, with individual members investigating different phases of the county set-up for maintaining proper physical conditions for wholesome living.

Small groups have interviewed Dr. Kenneth C. Sheriff on hospital facilities in the county and the rating of the institutions by the American Medical Association; the Peninsula Community Hospital and the County Hospital are the only ones rated first class, but as a whole the county is short of hospital beds, in common with most communities in the country. Other members have attended supervisors' meetings, or investigated sanitary arrangements or checked on the water supply in the various communities.

Heated campaigning for student body offices has been the big issue at CHS this week with bulletin boards, walls and corridors covered with posters. Candidates were introduced to the student body at an assembly this morning and voting will continue during recess and lunch periods, with the results being known later this afternoon after all ballots are in.

Those running for office are: Gary Shaw, Jennefer Lloyd, and Aram Tootelian for student body president; Frank Richey and Floyd Adams for vice-president; Laurel Hildebrand and Edelen Cory for secretary; Dick Sumner, Peter Berg and Paul Artellan for commissioner of boys' athletics; Connie Melchior and Joan Daniels for commissioner of girls' athletics; Ardith Morrisseau and Nancy Page for commissioner of publicity; and Dee Sharpe and Patsy Canoles for commissioner of social and community affairs.

The latest addition to safety equipment benefiting CHS students is the overhead beacon at the intersection of Ocean Avenue and State Highway No. 1. Installed just a week ago today by the division of highways, the beacon brings the fulfillment of a request which was filed over a year ago. Flashing red to the east and west and yellow to the north and south, it is an especially valuable improvement, since the high school no longer has a crossing guard to lessen the dangers of highway traffic for students.

Tryouts for Jane Eyre, the senior play, have been going on all week under the direction of Mrs. Mariquita Brey, dramatics instructor. Students voices are being tested in Sunset School Auditorium, where the play will be presented on March 11.

Girls' speedball is now in the throes of the second round of play with the seniors and juniors tied for first place in the initial round. The sophomores are in second spot with one win and two losses, and the frosh are third, having lost three games. Manager for speedball is Laurel Hildebrand.

Archery is over for this year with winners of the after school tourney being Sue McCloud, first; Alys Knight, second; and Ann Thoeni, third. Managers Linda Bain and Donna Douglas were in charge.

The mixed volleyball tournament, sponsored by the GAA, got off to a good start Tuesday with three games scheduled during the noon hour. Each class is represented by two teams, one red and one blue, since the initial interest in this activity was great enough to support two teams per class. It's going to be a fight to the finish for the winning team, not only for the honor of victory, but because the losing team has to put away the equipment after each session.

The whole school is in on folk dancing now. For the past few sessions the boys have been included, as well as the girls, and it looks like it's going to be a permanent thing. Dances are demonstrated and taught by Mrs. Marie Fenner and Coach George Mosolf, physical education instructors, with new numbers and variations every lesson. The new public address equipment is being put to good use, and saves a lot of wear and tear on the voices of the instructors.

Over 50 members of the French and advanced art classes Wednesday afternoon heard a talk on life today in Paris by Abel Warshawsky, and saw his collection of oil paintings on exhibit at the Carmel Art Gallery. Recently back from Paris with a large number of paintings, Mr. Warshawsky told of his visit in France and of some of his works. His interest in young people made the talk especially interesting to the group. The gallery trip was under the auspices of the French Club, which is sponsored by Mrs. Elise Beaton and headed by Bill Marquardt, president; Ruth van Neil, vice-president, and Christine Malvido, secretary-treasurer.

Photography Week is being observed this week and part of next in order to give everyone an opportunity to take pictures for the snapshot page of El Padre, the yearbook. A prize is being offered for the best candid shot of student life submitted. The "week" devoted to this project had to be stretch a bit because the weather man wasn't very obliging. Meanwhile official photography of various campus groups and organizations continues under the direction of Connie Melchior and Georgann Bell, photography editors, and George Cain, photographer.

CHS's Junior Red Cross chapter will stage another in the series of after-the-game dances tonight following the league game with Boulder Creek. Theme and decorations for the affair will carry out the Red Cross idea, featuring an

PHOTOGRAPHY CLASSES

The Adult Education Class in Color Photography, under the direction of Miss Leota Tucker, will meet on Friday, January 21, at 7:30 p. m., in room 11, Sunset School. A color film of Banff, Jasper Park, Canada, by G. L. Kerr, will be shown.

On Monday, January 24, the class will meet at 7:30 p. m. in the auditorium of Sunset School, when Therese Whitesides' latest prize winning transparencies in the Gold Oscar award at the California Camera Club will be displayed. These are pictures of San Diego County and of the Southwest. Also to be shown at this meeting is a color movie with music, entitled Washington Shrine.

The public is invited to attend both meetings.

American flag lanked by two Red Cross flags, with banners of different nations placed around the rest of the cafeteria. Refreshments will include cokes and cookies, and records will provide music for dancing. The various committees are: planning, Janet Richey, chairman, Pat Timbers, Dick Taplin, Ann Thoeni, and Peter Lyon; reception, Peter Lyon, chairman, and Linda Bain; decorations, Laurel Hildebrand, chairman, Mary Eleanor Horne, June Kocher, Ruth van Neil, and Bill Marquardt; refreshments, Kathie von Meier, chairman, Sali Dalton, Joe Beard; publicity, Sali Dalton; cleanup, Dick Taplin, chairman, Benita Updike, and Janet Richey; and tickets, Connie Melchior, Janet Richey, and Ann Thoeni.

JR. RED CROSS NEWS

Following the Boulder Creek-Carmel basketball game at the high school gym tonight, members of the Junior Red Cross will sponsor a dance in the school cafeteria, with proceeds to go toward their overseas relief program.

To cost an estimated $100, the project will include a large chest, to be made in the school shop classes, filled with essential supplies for a destitute school in Europe. Contents will be school and health supplies, a first aid kit, books, recreational and sporting equipment, and musical instruments. When filled, the chest will be shipped to its destination by the American Red Cross. Sali Dalton, member of the Junior Red Cross Council, is chairman for the project. The dance will be under the direction of Janet Ritchie.

Stags will be discouraged at tonight's affair, since student body members coming alone will pay 35 cents while couples will be charged only 25 cents. Price for non-student body members will be 50 cents a couple.

BUSINESS OPENING

On Thursday, Carmel's first store devoted exclusively to health foods opened on Ocean Avenue between San Carlos and Mission streets. It is under the management of Mrs. Hoyland Bettinger of Carmel and is owned by C. Arthur Sargent, who also owns a restaurant in Monterey.

The store will cater particularly to the diets of diabetics and sufferers of allergies, but will also carry a complete stock of vitamin preparations and other health foods.

Do You Remember . . . ?

PARIS, 1910 (PART II)

BY A. G. WARSHAWSKY

Benton was a short, swarthy, compact young fellow, whose grandfather had been a pioneer and an important political personage in Missouri. When I first met him he was lonely and homesick, groping his artistic way, and unable to acclimatize himself to his surroundings. He returned a year later to America where he started out and made an enviable place for himself among the younger group of painters doing the American scene. Naturally, I was all agog to find out what was going on in this new art world. Only vague rumors had come to us in the U. S. of what was currently called over here, The New Movement, the vast upheaval which was taking place in the world of art, where old gods were being overthrown and tradition stamped into the dust. There were new masters whose names I had scarcely heard (remember, this was 1910) Cezanne, Van Gogh, Matisse, Gauguin. There was talk of Fauvism and Post-Impressionism, and I learned that Monet and his school had ruined all sense of form in their pernicious search for light, and that the Impressionistic school had degenerated into painters of perfumed and colored jams. As for Robert Henri, who I had believed stood for all that was new and daring in American art, here, he was considered "old hat," and his work rejected by the jury of the autumn salon.

The arrival of Kroll and our mutual joy at seeing each other broke up our symposium on art. Kroll, for whom I had many messages from his family, had received my letter from New York, and awaiting me was a couch installed in the anteroom of his studio. We talked into the early hours of the morning before retiring. It was cold and muggy; and even in bed, with my heavy coat over the coverlet, I shivered. It seemed hours before I would fall asleep, tired though I was. It was only by keeping the stove going continuously that we found it possible to experience any degree of warmth. I have since found that I was not the first foreigner who had had to come to sunny France to learn what it was to shiver indoors.

It was still dripping when we awoke next morning, but Kroll and Benton took the day off to show me something of Paris. Needless to say, the Louvre, the Seine and its picturesque bridges were first on our itinerary.

The Passage Guibert, where we were living is close to the Montparnasse station. There we boarded one of the huge horse-drawn buses plying down the Rue de Vaugirard, across the Seine to the Boulevards. The Paris omnibus in those days carried outside passengers on what was known as the "imperial," where we ensconced ourselves to have a better view, unprotected even by an awning against the drizzling rain. I have always heard of the squeamishness of the French regarding exposure to the elements, but I noted to my surprise that our fellow passengers on the bus roof appeared stoically indifferent to the rainy skies. I, too, soon forgot the discomfort of sitting in the wet, so absorbing was the sight of the new strange world through which we were passing. Never had I seen such weird contrasts blending so harmoniously in a "city-picture," as the Germans say. In the gray, ancient streets vividly painted kiosks and gay, particolored posters and signs made colorful splashes against hoary masonry and dun-hued walls. Weather beaten facades of once patrician dwellings bore commercial signs over their huge stone portals. The roof lines were an unending variety of jumbled chimney pots interspersed with dormer windows. Beyond the placarded walls were peeps into lovely bits of old world gardens, where time seemed to have stood still, while outside roared the modern traffic.

OLIVIER'S HAMLET

*How many journeys to dark Elsinore,
I disremember. Now again the scene,
The fictive madness on a fatal shore,
Hangs like a curse around the ruined Dane;
And brooding indecision brings him low
Him, Hamlet, one of nature's paradigms,
Who should have worn all laurels on his brow.
O, I have seen his fall how many times!
But never with more pity nor more terror
More doom and grandeur. I think also then,
Three hundred years the Prince has died for error,
A dynasty of Hamlets from one pen . . .
He whom a million men have seen struck down,
He lives while they, like us to be, are gone.*

—J. S. MOODEY.

THE CARMEL SEA

*The Carmel sea had much to say;
It brooked no bridle nor delay
And hissed its words the wildest way.*

*The plum-colored sea was fringed with green,
Braided with silver and aquamarine.
The living sea was a thing all sheen.*

*Neptune himself with lace-trimmed wrists,
Disguised as a courtier with curls and twists,
Was one of the oddest duelists.*

*He shifted and piled the pallid sand,
Then turned his back and raised his hand
As whiter grew the covering land.*

*Reflecting stars that never were seen,
The sea changed from plum to ultramarine
And writhed like something serpentine!*

*With long arms grasping the frightened shore
While fingers dug and scratched and tore,
First it whispered and then it swore:*

*"I, first of matter to give breath birth,
Shall prove the ocean of primal worth
And break asunder the heart of the earth!"*

*As soon as the sky its blue had worn,
Before that God for man could mourn,
In Tyrian purple I was born!"*

—HELEN NIVENS.

FOG

*The sky estranged, and the earth reduced
To a mere fragment—a tree and a stone—
The sea is only a muffled music now
That finds the heart appalled, alone.*

Your California Garden and Mine, Sydney B. Mitchell. M. Barrows and Company. $3.00.

It was in January of 1933, close on the heels of the disastrous December freeze, the dire results of which are still vivid in the memories of many California gardeners, that a small group of central Californian horticulturists, a good number of them succulent fanciers, gathered to compare notes on the damage done to their gardens. We swapped experiences on plant behaviour and on our own behaviour toward our plants and at last got down to the business of forming the California Horticultural Society. Dr. Sydney B. Mitchell, at that time Dean of the School of Librarianship in Berkeley, was our first president, serving until a few years ago. It was at one of the early meetings that he observed that the Society had been "sired by succulents and dammed by the frost."

Many an amateur gardener has been nourished on Dr. Mitchell's two early books, Gardening in California, and From a Sunset Garden. In 1940, when the Journal of the California Horticultural Society came into being, Sydney Mitchell was its valued editor, a position he has held ever since. As material for the Journal accumulated Dr. Mitchell conceived the idea of another book. Your California Garden and Mine has come up out of the author's experiences in his garden in the Berkeley hills and out of information aired in the Journal. It is packed with guidance on the growing of those plants most used in coastal central California.

The fifteen chapters include advice on trees, shrubs, perennials, annuals and bulbs, on many of the species and named horticultural varieties that can be grown in the gardens of the Monterey Peninsula. The chapter on iris is as authoritative as one would expect from an iris specialist. There is no doubt that we will hear more from Dr. Mitchell on this subject as well as on the narcissus, for Sydney Mitchell is also a narcissus hybridizer.

Flowering fruit trees are more of a success a few miles inland than they are in Carmel, but I know of no better short treatise on this delightful group than the one in the chapter under that title, a chapter which also gives a scholarly report on deciduous magnolias. In Deciduous Flowering Shrubs Sydney Mitchell gives courage to gardeners to stand out for more of these gay bushes. California's climate, realtors to the contrary, is not even throughout the year (witness this January's cold) and because the seasonal variance is not as definitely marked as it is in the eastern states, we have need of deciduous shrubs to accept contrasts and thus dispel monotony.

Fuchsia fans get more than half of the chapter, which they share with chrysanthemums and geraniums, and justly so, for nowhere is the fuchsia grown to greater perfection than in the San Francisco Bay and the Monterey Bay areas. Add what Dr. Mitchell has to say on the subject to the contents of The Fuchsia Book, published by the American Fuchsia Society, and the layman has a full and satisfying basis from which to work. In Garden of My Dreams, the last chapter of Your California Garden and Mine, the amateur will learn that tuberous begonias are really not difficult to grow and here he will find information enough to start him on his way. I was sorry not to see nemesis listed among the annuals to sow in the open for these are among our winter standbys, cheering with gorgeous color our winter gardens from Christmas into early spring. In Perennials in General, Sydney Mitchell has, thank goodness, come out frankly for the mixed border—a planting not necessarily patterned after the border in vogue in England and in the eastern states, but one combining flowering shrubs, perennials, annuals and bulbs.

Dr. Mitchell deserves so much credit for this

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

I am as much up in the air over this frost business, as the next fellow. This is my first experience with a black frost in California. Here is a report on damage to my own garden. The following plants are gone beyond recall: heliotrope, lantana, impatiens, some species of fuchsias, cestrum nocturnum, passion vine, datura. (Some of the older datura plants may survive, but I doubt if any young plants ever come back.) My statice plants look very gloomy with sear and yellow leaf.

One of our most serious losses is the lowly geranium. How little we consider those bright, cheerful plants, yet without them, how drab our gardens are going to be! I cannot find any life at all in pelargoniums or geraniums. I am advised by higher authority not to give up hope; there may be life in the root structure of geraniums. Don't pull up any plants, and don't do any pruning yet. It is better to leave these ragged draperies of colorful plants alone until all danger of frost is over. The temptation to go out right now and whack away at dead foliage is strong, but hold your pruning until the experts advise us to go ahead.

Plants that did stand the freeze amaze me. Petunias are going right ahead with their business of blooming. The foliage looks a bit sick, but I believe petunias will come back. My columbine looks healthy and ready to go to work, come spring. My garden is offering up blooming stock every day. Not full, lush blooms, but blooms just the same. Carnations have stood up. Gazanias are blooming merrily. Hypericum and ground strawberry are holding their own. Saxifrage is standing erect valiantly. I had to laugh at my sempervivum. (Hen-and-chick.) My borders of sempervivum is a gorgeous red, giving color to the drab garden. Those plants have no business bursting into color. I have no idea what to expect, but I am going to leave the sempervivum alone.

One method of verifying still living shrubs is to use your thumb nail. Scratch a bit of the bark. If the underlying stratum is black, kiss that plant goodbye. Scratch further down toward the root; if a bit of green is your reward, that plant will probably live. One heather tree that I examined looked as though gone beyond recall. The bark was split from root to tip, and the heart of the plant was mushy and soft.

A bitter blow has been dealt eugenias, the aristocrat of hedges. No one can say what to expect from eugenias. Let the plants alone and do a lot of hoping. When the time does come to prune, we have a lot of work ahead. All plants that are going to survive will need a close haircut to remove damaged foliage, but hold those clipping shears now!

My young seedlings have given up the ghost. Flats for spring gardens, such as cornflower, nemesia, stock, snapdragon, forget-me-not are all gone. I am already in the process of planting new seeds.

While we are bemoaning our personal griefs, give a thought to our nurserymen whose damage is far greater than ours. Whole sections of nursery trees and shrubs have taken a terrific beating and replacements for gardens are going to be hard to find.

Moyer, U. C. Physicist To Speak Here Sat. On Atomic Energy

Burton J. Moyer, University of California physicist, will deliver the first of five lectures on atomic energy at 8 p. m. Saturday night in Sunset Auditorium. His subject is What Is Atomic Energy? The series, under the sponsorship of Carmel Adult School, is open to the public without charge.

Dr. Moyer is a graduate of the University of Washington, and before the war, taught physics at Greenville College in Illinois. When the race started between Germany and the United States to see who could make atomic bombs first, Dr. Moyer was called to the Radiation Laboratory at Berkeley, then sent to Oak Ridge, where scientists were trying to separate uranium 235, the explosive type, from ordinary uranium.

Now Dr. Moyer lectures on physics at the University of California and continues his research, using the world's greatest cyclotron as his tool, contributing articles to the physics journals on his studies. Saturday night he will explain in average-man language what atomic energy is.

book that I feel a bit ungrateful in complaining of the omission of many desirable less-known plants, both native and exotic, admirably suited to the beginner's garden (correas for instance) but after all, a book can only be just so long. The majority of California gardeners are amateurs, wanting to grow the plants common to the gardens of their neighbors, and if a book is to be helpful it must treat of familiar material. Books are usually written to sell, and if they are to sell, they must never be weighted down with information. Some garden books, sad though it may seem, are read once and put to gather dust on the shelf. This, I feel sure, is not to be the fate of Sydney Mitchell's Your California Garden and Mine.

There is a portfolio of twelve lovely photographs by Alma Lavenson, all taken in the author's garden. M. Barrows and Company is the publisher and $3 the cost.

How P. G. and E. ski patrol's measure water in sierra snow packs

The frozen white Sierra holds the secret of how much water and hydro-electric power California will have in the rainless summer months ahead... and P. G. and E. snow surveyors know how to dig out the answer. They ski up to 20 miles a day, "measuring" the snow every 50 feet. The findings are studied by our hydro-engineers, who can then determine—within 10%—exactly how much water will be available after the spring thaw. First step is to plunge a 20-foot aluminum tube like this deep down into the snow pack

Weighting the sample comes next. The amount of water varies with the density of the snow... and heavy, hard-packed snow stores up a greater volume of water than loosely-packed drifts.

This giant reservoir saves the precious water as snow melts. And then it's released as needed, creating more power for California homes and businesses and more water for farm irrigation.

For the record

By 1951, Northern and Central California will use twice the power it needed before the war.

To meet this growing demand, P. G. and E. already has added nearly 500,000 new electrical horsepower... and we are building nearly 1,500,000 more!

Work never stops on our power-building program

Fashion Show Plans

At the regular dinner meeting of the Carmel Lions Club Tuesday evening, final plans were discussed for the fashion show to be held Saturday night, January 29, at the Mission-Ranch Club, with Joe Huddler, chairman of the event, making a report. It was announced that at the fashion show various gifts, donated by local merchants, will be given away. Lion Frank Putnam announced that the club will also give away an automatic washing machine which is now being shown in various shop windows.

Proceeds from the event will go toward defraying expenses of the radiant heating unit for the Carmel High School swimming pool, underwritten by the Carmel Lions Club.

Guest of the evening was Rev. Guy Wimmer of Palo Alto, who was presented by Roy Hillyer. Seated as new members of the Carmel Lions Club were Fred Holtenbeck and Allan E. Champe.

Japanese Relief

The Women's Auxiliary of All Saints' Episcopal Church has received such touching letters of thanks for bundles of clothing and food sent to Japan that the members have decided to pay the postage on two parcels each month, one of food and one of clothing.

These parcels are given to the native Japanese Bishops for distribution where most needed, especially among Sunday School teachers.

A box for clothing and another for food, marked "Japanese Relief," will be found just inside the door of the Parish House of All Saints' Church for those who care to leave contributions. The most acceptable foods are dehydrated soups (soup cubes), lards and fats (in cans), canned meats, powdered chocolate, powdered milk, canned milk, soap, sugar, rice, rice flour, dried fruits. Candy is particularly wanted for the children. Wheat flour is not a food to which the Japanese are accustomed, nor is coffee, nor the kind of tea used in America. Warm clothing for children is particularly desired, as well as materials of all kinds, but any kind of clothing will be welcome.

Stanford Graduates

Toland Sharon Doud, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Doud of Carmel, was among the autumn quarter graduates of Stanford University, receiving a B. A. degree in the College of Biological Sciences. He plans to attend Stanford Medical School.

The graduate is the brother of Mrs. Robert Warren (Louise Doud), of Jamaica, New York, and of Mrs. Shreve Archer, Jr., of St. Paul, Minnesota.

Also graduating with a B. A. in Biological Sciences was Miss Margaret Deane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Deane of Carmel. Miss Deane, having spent last summer as a student at Hopkins Marine Station, has no immediate plans beyond taking a well-earned vacation.

Graduating with the same class was Norman Stewart Wintemute of Carmel, who took his Bachelor of Laws degree.

Winners of the ABC Bride and Groom program for January 12, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Prevette of Kansas City, Mo., are being entertained at the La Playa Hotel this week.

Home With Guests

While vacationing in San Francisco, Miss Celia Seymour suffered a fall which resulted in a break of both bones in her right wrist, for which she was treated at Merritt Hospital.

She has now returned to Carmel and has as her house guests Samuel Wainwright, artist, and Mrs. Wainwright.

AAUW Radio Listening

A box supper meeting for the Radio Listening Group of the AAUW will be held at the home of Miss Eleanor Mary Henry, chairman of the group, on Thursday, January 27, at 5:30 p. m.

The group has had interesting reports and discussions concerning radio commentators and newscasters, the particular field of radio which the members have chosen to study.

Other branches of the AAUW, notably in Madison, Wisconsin, which pioneered the field, and in San Francisco, have been carrying on studies in radio programs for more than a decade, since it is their belief that improvement will come only when the public demands adequate preparation, education and background of knowledge and experience in those who offer opinion and comment to the radio public. Already the networks have begun to heed the criticisms of the AAUW groups.

New members are cordially invited to join the group.

Mrs. Seton Here

Mrs. Nelson Miles Leoni had as her house guests this week her aunt, Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton, noted writer from Greenwich, Conn., who is spending the winter in Los Angeles, and Mrs. Seton's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Chase. Mrs. Chase, known as a writer under the name of Anya Seton, is about to bring out her new book, The Hearth and the Eagle.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Leoni gave a family party in her home, Palisades, in the Carmel Valley. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Gallatin Powers of Carmel Highlands, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Fassett, who came up from their log house at Big Sur, and their son, Griffiths, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard McGurrin of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase left on Wednesday for San Francisco, planning to stop over at Aptos in the new beach house of the McGurrins.

On Wednesday, Mrs. Raymond Spruance gave a luncheon at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club in honor of Mrs. Seton.

New Arrivals

A baby boy, John Burton McLeod, was born to Mrs. Bruce McLeod on January 16, at the Peninsula Community Hospital. Mr. McLeod is connected with the Monterey Supply Company.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Fergusson are the parents of a baby girl born on January 7, also at the Community Hospital. Anne Frances, as she is named, has two brothers, Austin, 5, and Ian, 2. Her grandmother is Mrs. William G. Austin of Carmel, and her father is a member of the firm of Ricketts and Fergusson in Carmel.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Graft joined the proud-parent category on January 12, when a daughter, Suzanne, was born at the Community Hospital. Mr. Graft is in business with his father, Earl Graft of the Carmel Dairy.

Honoring Mrs. Stephenson

A luncheon in honor of Mrs. Robert Stephenson was given jointly by Mrs. Paul Shattuck, Mrs. Bert Marshall and Mrs. Don Haines at the Pine Inn on Saturday. Following the luncheon, the group was entertained at the home of Mrs. Paul Shattuck, where a baby shower for Mrs. Stephenson took place. Guests were Mrs. Robert Lovejoy, Mrs. Morley Horder, Mrs. Walt Sterling, Mrs. Herbert Vial, Mrs. Bert Taylor, Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. George Wilcox, Mrs. LaRue Sorenson, Mrs. Calvin Flint, Mrs. Lois Dunham, and Misses Alice Clark, Marylea Marshall and Diane Tait.

James Bradley Hatlo Arrives

One day after his birth on January 11 at the Peninsula Community Hospital, James Bradley Hatlo sat for his first portrait by his father, cartoonist Jimmie Hatlo. The resulting birth announcement is causing chuckles among friends of the Hatlos. On the outside is "The answer to the Republican Party's prayers, U. S. President Select, James Bradley Hatlo, dedicated to freedom of speech and a wet platform, makes his first campaign oration at Carmel, California, January 11, 1949." On the inside, there is a picture of the candidate and his mother, Eleanor Hatlo, the "future president" squalling lustily.

Hayes-Knowles Wedding

On the afternoon of January 15, Miss Dorothy Hayes and Mr. Thelno Knowles were united in marriage by the Rev. Theodore Bell in a charming ceremony at St. John's Chapel, Del Monte.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. W. E. Burns, wore a white satin gown, a veil of imported French lace falling from a wreath of orange blossom. She carried a bouquet of white carnations with an orchid in the center.

Miss Doris Scott of Santa Monica was the maid of honor, wearing a pink gown and carrying white carnations with blue ribbons.

Miss Connie Knowles, bridesmaid and sister of the groom, wore a blue gown and carried pink carnations.

Mr. Robert Lawrence served as best man for his classmate, and the ushers were Mr. Alvin Knowles, brother of the groom, and Mr. Donald Smalley of San Jose.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress and accessories with a corsage of red roses. The groom's parents were unable to attend the wedding.

Following the ceremony, there was a reception given by Mrs. Cleo Woodson in her home on Oak street in Monterey. Among Carmel guests attending were Mrs. Jonathan W. Stillwell, Mr. Wesley Kergan, and Miss Helen Hughes; guests from San Jose included Mrs. Clyde Ribbs, Mrs. T. M. Davis and the Rev. C. W. Washington.

After the reception, the bride and groom left for Santa Monica, where they were received at an elaborate reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Knowles, the groom's parents.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Burns of Carmel, attended San Jose Junior College and is a Commerce graduate.

The groom is a graduate in Philosophy of San Jose State College. The couple will make their home in Berkeley, where the groom will attend the University of California as a graduate student in Sociology.

University Women

The recent graduate group of the American Association of University Women held its first meeting of the year in the home of Mrs. David Hull of Monterey on January 6. Speaker for the evening was Attorney John W. Morse of Carmel, who addressed the members on the subject of Law for the Lay Person.

Co-hostesses who assisted Mrs. Hull in serving refreshments were Mrs. Verne Williams and Mrs. C. B. Ward.

Golfers' Wives Entertained

Mrs. Lawson Little, Jr., gave a dinner party on Sunday evening at the Little home on Pelican Road, Monterey Peninsula Country Club, for the wives of golfers playing in the Bing Crosby tournament and for the wives of those attending the tag dinner which was held on the same evening.

Carmel Woman's Club

The Book Section of the Carmel Woman's Club held its first meeting in the new club house at San Carlos and Ninth street on Monday, January 17.

Mrs. Elizabeth Madison opened the discussion of the group, which had for its subject, What's in Your China Closet? with a brief resume of the history of china and porcelain. Mrs. Madison then introduced Mrs. Harold Underwood, who displayed approximately 100 demi-tasse cups and saucers from her collection, each one representing a famous maker. Mrs. Underwood described the differences between the various potters' houses and explained methods of distinguishing the work of each, also stressing the influence of the Chinese upon china and porcelain makers during various periods of history.

For those interested in china collecting as a hobby, Mrs. Underwood recommended particularly Eberlein's Practical Book of Chinaware.

Mrs. E. M. Beecher took up the subject of modern pottery and demonstrated through models in progressive stages the complete process of pottery making.

There were on display several pieces of rare china brought by members, among them a porridge bowl which had belonged to the great-great-grandmother of Mrs. Fenton Grigsby's husband.

Mrs. Benjamin Johnson announced that the meeting time of 2:30 p. m. had proved unsatisfactory, and the members of the group voted to resume the 2:00 p. m. meeting time. The next meeting will be held on Monday, January 24, and the subject will be Flower Arrangements. At this meeting a duplicate of the afghan displayed by Mrs. John B. Pierson at the January 17 meeting will be donated by her for raffle.

Tea was poured by Mrs. F. L. Knudsen and Mrs. Douglas Martz. Mrs. Ella Harris and Katherine Knudsen assisted Mrs. F. E. Naftzger, hospitality chairman.

Art Classes Resumed

Lee Randolph, former director of the California School of Fine Arts in San Francisco, has resumed classes in art instruction which have been suspended during his illness.

Studio classes will meet at the Randolph Studio, 281 Palou street, on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 9:30 o'clock.

Until Mr. Randolph is able to pursue outdoor activity, landscape classes will also be held at the studio, on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 2:30.

Attends Seminar

Dr. K. Fillmore Gray has been attending the ministers' seminar which closes today noon after four days of sessions at Asilomar. The meetings have brought together more than 100 men from the Pacific Coast for sessions under the direction of Dean Walter Mueller of Boston University School of Theology, and Dr. Owen Geer of Los Angeles. Dr. Gray has served as a member of the committee of three which has planned the worship programs.

Carmel Missionary Society

All members of the Church of the Wayfarer and All Saints' Episcopal Church, both men and women, are reminded that they may bring friends to the next meeting of the Carmel Missionary Society, to be held in the Parish House of All Saints' Church (Monte Verde south of Ocean Avenue) on Tuesday, January 25, at 2:30 p. m. After a brief business meeting there will be a talk by Professor Said Riza on an archeological expedition made in Trans-Jordan, Gerash, and the Land of Moab. This land is of particular interest to all students of the Old Testament and to all who are attentive to the storm centers of today. Professor Said Riza is a distinguished speaker, which, added to the interests of his subject, makes this a meeting which no one should miss. Tea will be served after the talk.

Two Baptisms

With the baptism of two Carmel children at the Church of the Wayfarer last weekend, a new baptismal bowl was used for the first time. It was given in memory of Mrs. J. Wilbur Light of Pacific Grove, a member of the church who died in December. The bowl is a sterling silver reproduction of one made by the patriot and silversmith, Paul Revere.

On Saturday Arthur James Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Johnson was baptized with members of the family present. And on Sunday afternoon Barbara Jeanne Pearson, six-months-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles N. Pearson was baptized with Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Heiermann of South Bend, Indiana, as sponsors. They had served in this way at Mrs. Pearson's baptism. The grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Teschke and aunt, Barbara Teschke were also present.

Michael Mann to Europe

Of interest to Carmelites who knew Michael Mann, violinist and son of Thomas Mann, and his wife during their period of residence here before the war will be the news that he will make a concert tour of Europe in 1949 and 1950, playing in France, England, Germany, Switzerland and Scandinavian countries.

The Manns are now living in Mill Valley, and Michael has been playing with the San Francisco Symphony.

Mr. Mann is currently represented in the magazine Musicology with an article titled Problem of Interpretation. He has also published numerous articles in German and French music periodicals.

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. Audrey Crawford's Third Grade

My mother, my father, my sister, Jean, and I went up to Mariposa County to visit our grandmother and grandpa. My grandmother's name is Nelly McCarthy Elston. My grandpa's name is Thomas Sidney Elston.

On Christmas day we put up the Christmas tree and then we decorated it. Then we went out in the snow. We slid around on the ice. I found that I could stand on it, but I was disappointed because I didn't have any ice skates.

I got some mistletoe.

—Patty Elston.

I had some friends come over Christmas. They are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wilson of Pacific Grove. They ate breakfast with us. Then we opened our presents. I got some boxing gloves. Then we went to the show.—Parker Pollack.

I went to my grandmother's house for Christmas dinner. We were waiting for my daddy to call us. When he called on the phone we went back to my house. We talked for a while. Then we opened our presents. We surprised our grandfather after we opened our presents. His name is Mr. John McCaman of Monterey. We had a big box and in it was a paper about a wonderful dog. The paper also said that the dog was a hunter and my grandfather was surprised. Then he saw another paper that said "Come into Suzann's room." So grandpa went into my room and he saw a wonderful dog. It was a hunter. Grandpa was surprised.—Suzann Pilot.

We went to my grandmother's home for Christmas dinner. Her name is Mrs. Lowell of Carmel. Martie and I got a radio and a doll and a book and a cap gun. I also got a book from Garry Bradburn of Carmel Valley. I hope everyone had a Merry Christmas.

—Pepper Lane.

On Christmas day my mother invited my grandmother and my uncle to open the presents under the Christmas tree. My father was fixing cocktails in the other room. I was very anxious to open my presents. Finally my father came back. I could hardly wait for then I could open my presents.

—Lacey Williams.

My sister knocked over our Christmas tree and knocked down all the balls that we had on our tree so we had to take it down the next day. It made me feel very unhappy.—Roxanna Way.

On Christmas morning I went into the living room and looked at the presents. I could see through the wrapping paper. I saw a Book of Oz.—Mike Coleman.

Mrs. Sylvia Jordan's Seventh Grade

Last Wednesday we had a very nice treat. Mr. Cullen, a representative of Standard Oil of California, showed some excellent color movies. One was about Cuba. It showed many historic monuments. One of the strangest things we saw was a native playing La Paloma by clapping his hands over his mouth and then making odd noises with his hands. The second movie was about California. It showed many of the state's historical monuments, pictures of San Francisco and other big cities. The third was about plant life. We saw pictures of many flowers opening and closing.—Dennis Mahar.

During the past two weeks the number of absences has almost doubled at Sunset School. Most of the children were out because of head and chest colds and intestinal disturbances.—Alice Ferrante.

Last Friday, January 14, our school was dismissed at 2:10 because of a teachers' Guidance conference at Monterey. Grades 4-7 came in from lunch at 12:50 instead of 1:00.—Richard Whitesides

So far the results of the cold weather are: frozen drinking fountains, poor wilted plants in the patio, a beautiful icicle hanging from the fountain in the corridor, and a solid mass of ice in one corner of the playfield. Most of the children have completed their fifth turn sliding on it. Probably before this weather stops, there will be many more strange happenings.

—Dina Bohn.

Traffic Captain Allen Knight went down to Mrs. DeVoe's kindergarten to review the school traffic laws with the children. Allen also helped at Tuesday's P. T. A. meeting. He led in the salute to the flag.—Bruce Bixler.

The boys at Sunset have after-school sports on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Our four teams are called Hot Rods, Jet Jobs, Aces, and Leopards. Games start at 3:40 and end at 5 o'clock. Mr. Rogers is our coach. If you haven't anything to do some Tuesday or Thursday, stop by. You'll find us in the gym.—Denny Johnson.

The richest single fishery in the world is that of Bristol Bay, Alaska, where most of America's 1947 red salmon pack was canned.

Blood Bank Day Set For January 24 At El Estero Y. M. C. A.

The Blood Donor Center at the Army and Navy YMCA, El Estero, Monterey, will be open on January 24 from 10:45 a. m. to 2:00 p. m., so donors may contribute to the local Blood Banks which are already established at the Monterey Hospital, Peninsula Community Hospital and the Monterey County Hospital.

The Blood Bank is not only necessary for the health of the community, but as operated by the Red Cross and the County Medical Society, saves the patient considerable money, as no charge is ever made for blood from this bank. One example is the recent case of a patient on the Peninsula who required 14 pints of blood; six pints were obtained from the Blood Bank. Because of lack of sufficient donors in December this exhausted the Blood Bank supply. Two pints were available from the patient's relatives but six more pints had to be obtained from professional donors at the cost of $25 a pint.

Call the Carmel Red Cross now for an appointment on Monday, January 24, phone 382. If you need transportation the Motor Corps will supply it. Fruit juices, sandwiches and coffee are served to each donor.

CONSTRUCTION THEFT

Theft of 300 feet of rubber-covered electric power cable from a construction tool shed at Torres and Fourth was reported last weekend by Clyde Edward Bertram, Monterey contractor. The cable, valued at $125, is believed to have been taken Wednesday night by some one using a pass key, as the locked door had not been forced.

With Mary Madeleine

"If winter comes, can spring be far behind?" Hasten the day, then, not with wishful thinking but by bringing bits of spring into the house now. Flowers would head this list of course, and FLOR DE MONTEREY is a sure source of the latest blossoms. For instance the shop has gladiolus just in from Florida; pure white, and most dramatic these. And now the pink and white and lavender cyclamen can be had in smaller five inch pots, as well as the regular eight inch size. Iris is at FLOR DE MONTEREY, too, and the gay and golden daffodil, and poetic narcissus. The phone number of FLOR DE MONTEREY, which is on Franklin street in Monterey, is 7885. So rain and wind need not keep spring out.

It's a fact even in Carmel, that now is the best time to buy summer cottons, if you really care about getting the best selection of styles and colors, because now is when manufacturers blossom forth with them. THE CARMEL DRESS SHOP on Ocean Avenue has long had a reputation for the prettiest budget cottons in town and this season more than ever merits it. So pop in and choose the cream of the new crop from the wide variety of nationally advertised fabrics, long staple cotton, vat dyed, Sanforized and all. As you whisk through the chambrays and gingham and silky broadcloths you'll find a few barebacks with jackets in bedford cord. Let THE CARMEL DRESS SHOP keep you beauteous and springlike indoors now, and ahead of the fashion parade come summer sun.

While you dream and clip pictures for your someday home of your own, you can become better acquainted with wall paper possibilities. Drop in at the CARMEL PAINT AND WALLPAPER CO. on Junipero at Fourth street for a cordial cup of coffee with the Walkers, the new owners. But besides looking over their beautiful range of papers, why not buy a yard or two of some of your favorites and have fun at home? You can line the back of an old cabinet with an interesting Chinese print, or make panels on a door, or cover a ten cent file envelope with a modern design (good trick for travel packing kits) or paste a flower-sprigged pattern on hat-boxes. Don't be shy about such a small buy; the Walkers think this is a good way to explore your own individual taste in wallpaper design, so when you are ready to order for walls, you'll know what you like, and that THE CARMEL PAINT AND WALLPAPER CO. is the place to get it.

Bring spring into your bones and blood, too. No, not with sulphur and molasses but by some revitalizing visits at the BEALL HEALTH CENTER on Mission at Fifth. Here you can lie and dream of pussywillows while a steam cabinet bath flushes out assorted toxins to drip away with the copious perspiration; afterwards diathermy will bring warmth deep within. Massage will further stir up circulation, perhaps slim down a spot or two, and ultra-violet rays will spray you with Vitamin D and coat you with the golden glow of a suntan. Skip into the BEALL HEALTH CENTER and skip out feeling like spring; the phone is 387-W.

Naturally feeling so full of zip, you'll cast an eye on the inevitable subject of spring house cleaning. But if you are modern enough to maintain suntan in rain time, you also know that cleaning upheavals are obsolete, and the job is done piecemeal, week by week, year round. You likewise know this is simple if you use the LITTLE GEM LAUNDRAMATIC on Junipero to keep washable rugs and spreads and drapes clean, as well as clothes. But since you are so used to this magic help, remember to murmur to your less modern neighbor, next time she groans about house cleaning, that the LITTLE GEM LAUNDRAMATIC will dry all manner of heavy washables for you, too, and all for a matter of pennies. Spread some spring!

Super Ambulance Expected Here About April 1

Final specifications and the official order for a new Red Cross ambulance were completed and sent off Sunday. Fred Mylar, chairman of the Red Cross ambulance committee, said this week. Delivery is expected by April 1.

The present ambulance, a converted panel delivery truck, has covered 14,000 miles in emergency calls since its purchase in 1937. More than 1,400 trips have been made in that time.

Manufactured by the Superior Bus and Ambulance Company, Lima, Ohio, the new vehicle will have a much longer wheelbase than the present one, thus providing more comfort for passengers and drivers alike, Mylar said. Equipment will include a two-way radio for police calls, an oxygen inhalator, and a light cot, in addition to the resuscitator and first aid equipment to be transferred from the old ambulance.

As before, the ambulance will be financed by the Carmel chapter of the Red Cross and manned by First Aid members of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department.

Long Love Affair Recorded In Exhibit

(Continued from Page One) the Fantasies, but for goodness sake don't be indignant, as the artist says some people are, because he makes an abrupt change of style. Unless the artist continues to explore, to play, if you will, he will become static, which of course is to regress, since nothing stands still. When you go into the end gallery where the Fantasies are hung, pretend some unknown has done them and see what you think. I think they are vivid and decorative and fun. It will be interesting to see where they lead the painter.

Of the Small Portraits I particularly like Young French painter, Peasant Woman of Finistere and the Breton sailor. These are painting for sure; simple, emotional, charged with the individual vitality of those who sat for them.

It is good to see one painting of a New York street scene among the lot, because it serves as a criterion, and you know that you have not been wholly carried away by romanticism in thinking the other paintings good. This scene of an elevated station in evening light, with towering skyscrapers behind is a most skillful unification of many buildings, of sweet colors with drab. It is balanced and articulate, and everyone commented on it and liked it at the preview.

Several things impressed me particularly in Warshawsky's technique in the French pictures. He has great skill in handling many figures on a street. His streets have an extraordinary depth of perspective. And rarely shall one see the quality of air itself so adroitly captured; not the colorful mists and hazes that Warshawsky gives his twilights and others reports of mountains, but the colorless sharp awareness of the air itself which he manages to convey in some of these paintings, so that though the air makes sharper the colors of all it touches, one is conscious of the air itself, as briefly sometimes on a rain-washed day.

Arts And The Artists

By Mary-Madeleine Riddle

Wonderful idea, the high school art session at the Gallery yesterday, and a most successful one, too. Furthermore, you can chalk it up as another step in the international relations through art department. Edward Kincaid and Mrs. Elise Beaton, representing art and French respectively at the high school, brought their classes down to see the Warshawsky exhibit and to hear him talk a bit about the pictures and their settings, this partly in French, partly in English. There was a Swedish, a Dutch, a Spanish, and a Mexican student in the group, so the ripples go on. Ruth Warshawsky wore a Breton wedding costume. Several members of the local French Club dropped in; one woman had lived right across from one of the scenes Buck is showing. Everyone tried out his French, everyone enjoyed the session. Here's hoping for more of same.

The Carmel Art Association continues to grow. Sixteen new members were added in 1948. Results of elections of board members and officers are as follows:

Eight members re-elected for next two years: Armin Hansen, Frank Myers, Nora Grabill, Zenas Potter, Margaret Levick, Hoyland Bettinger, Sophie Harpe and Abel Warshawsky.

Six re-elected for the year term included George Seidenack, Lee Randolph, Richard Lofton, Howard Smith, Rama Stearns, Gene Francis McComas. Elected to complete the roster was Howell Armor.

Officers for 1949: Armin Hansen, president; Frank Myers, vice-president; Richard Lofton, second vice-president; Arne Halle, treasurer; Mrs. Raymond S. Grabill, recording secretary; Sophie Harpe, corresponding secretary.

Due to pressure of work, ill health, and contemplated absence from Carmel, three former members of the board had removed their names from nomination. These were John O'Shea, William Watts, and Maxine Albro.

Once again letters have gone out to the high schools of California inviting participation in the annual High School Art Festival, scheduled to begin May 23. This contest and exhibit, jointly sponsored by the Carmel High School and the Carmel Art Association, is a sure enough community venture. The letters, composed by Mrs. Nelly Montague and Mr. Kincaid, are typed, mimeographed and mailed by the Carmel students; and when entries come in, they help unpack and hang them. The Carmel Business Association gives the first prizes, and our PTA gives the reception for everybody.

When you see the Warshawsky show, stop in the other gallery and take a look at beautiful new coat-of-arms in black walnut for the Naval Air Station, Monterey. The heraldry was created after extensive research by Colonel Herbert W. Anderson, helped by Commander Howell Armor, who did the very beautiful carving.

The Carmel Camera Club secured a few photographs from the well known Lejaren a Hiller, and these are hung there. Those who know Hiller's work and the influence he has had on better advertising photography will wish that there were many more photographs and a card of information on his work; it is difficult to do justice to it with only a few selections.

Ferdinand Burgdorff has been playing Santa Claus again, with a donation to cover 25 new chairs for the Gallery. Anyone want to play on his team? The thermometer is now at 58. Objective, 100.

The Carmel Craftsmen's Guild will meet Sunday afternoon at the home of Margaret Lang in Carmel Valley, to elect officers after a pot-luck luncheon. As there are approximately 150 craftsmen on the Peninsula who are eligible to belong to the Guild, the next year should see Carmel becoming known for its outstanding crafts center as well as a writers' and artists' colony. Big plans are in the making. For one thing, it is now probable that the Guild will have an exhibit in the Monterey County Fair this fall.

Reminder: on February 1 the Association Gallery will return to its old custom of being open from 2 to 5. Plea that the Gallery will be open one evening a week for working art lovers is under consideration.

Reminder: February 25 is the deadline on applications for a Bender Memorial Grant-in-Aid. Four grants will be given, two to writers, two to artists; each is for $1,200. Forms and information may be secured from the San Francisco Art Association.

Tournament Luncheon

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Jones held open house luncheon for tournament golfers and other friends at their home on Cormorant Road in the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

A. W. V. S. Project

Mrs. E. W. Cochran, chairman of the Monterey branch of the A. W. V. S. called a meeting at the home of Mrs. Louis Lengfield in Pebble Beach last Friday when a new project was brought forward. A committee was formed to work toward interesting more young high school students in attending events of outstanding merit. A beginning will be made with the concert of the 27-year-old pianist, Robert Brereton, Friday night, January 28, at Sunset School Auditorium.

A drive will be made to sell tickets for half price to students, and all tickets sold by the A. W. V. S. will be credited toward a student ticket fund to give free tickets to deserving students who might not otherwise be able to attend. Those interested in aiding this endeavor may telephone any member of the committee which includes Mrs. Lee Harbick, Mrs. E. D. Goodrich, Mrs. Karl Higen, Mrs. F. G. Ringland, and Miss Alice Seckels.

Winter guests at the hotel include Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Joy of Bristol, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Wiley of New York City, who are the parents of Mrs. John P. Gilbert of Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. F. Corning Kenley of Medford, Oregon, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Sears of Portland, Oregon, Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Witman of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Douglas Morris, her sister and her niece, Rochester, New York.

Wayfarer Women's Luncheon

Nearly 50 members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer met on Tuesday noon in the social room for the monthly luncheon of the organization, and a number of others came in for the meeting which followed. Mrs. Walter Kreisler, president, conducted the meeting, which heard James H. Price describe the needs of the Navajo Indians, reported elsewhere in The Pine Cone. Mrs. Charles E. Corbin gave the devotions on the theme, the greatness of little things, and ended with an Indian translation of the Twenty-third Psalm.

Mrs. Kreisler gave the report on the relief sewing done by women of the church and women of All Saints' Church, meeting twice a month in the Wayfarer social room, which she had charge of before she took the presidency. They had sent 2,560 pounds of clothing, bedding, and similar supplies to Europe and Asia during the year. In the Pack-a-Towel project, the Monterey Peninsula church women's groups sent 137 bundles totaling 1,132 pounds, 84 bundles of which went from the two co-operating churches in Carmel. In the late summer, to meet an emergency call from the Save the Children Foundation, the group collected and repaired clothing to fill four large cartons and two large army duffle bags, which were sent to Arizona for relief of Navajo children. Mrs. Walter Lehmann of All Saints' Church now has charge of the sewing group, which meets at Wayfarer social room on the second and fourth Thursday afternoons each month from 2 to 5 o'clock.

When introduced, Mr. Price spoke of the generous collections of clothing made from time to time by the pupils of Carmel schools, amounting to 5,000 pounds or more, for the Foundation, half of which had been distributed where needed in this country.

Mrs. Grace C. Howden announced the meeting of the Carmel Missionary Society, of which she is co-chairman, next Tuesday afternoon at All Saints' Church. Miss L. Lucile Turner reported the sending of $30, the half-year contribution, for the education of a Chinese girl, Pen Hsien Yong, in a mission school in south China. Twenty members of the Auxiliary have been contributing individually for the past five or six years to this project, aided by an occasional offering taken in the Wayfarer Circle. The first girl they assisted graduated this year, and Miss Yong is a new protegee.

The luncheon was prepared and served by a committee headed by Mrs. Guy L. Kell, which included Miss Elizabeth Pelley, Miss Eva Belle Adams, Mrs. Margaret Ames, Mrs. Sarah White, and Mrs. Edmond Harget.

Baha'is of Carmel

Last week a number of the Baha'is of Carmel held firesides in their homes, presenting as guest speaker Mrs. Mamie Seto of San Francisco. High lights of her talks included, "The Promised Age is no superstitious illusion: it has been gestating during these troubled years and is now being born from the labor and agony of a universal war. This is the darkest hour before dawn, a dawn with vibrant power, clear with certainty and fresh with the breath of a new spirit. The dark night of misery and oppression will soon be ended. The reveille has been sounded, calling the human race to brotherhood and peace and service in a more thrilling cause than any which past ages could offer. That cause is the cause of unity, of human solidarity, and it demands a remodeling of the attitudes, institutions and customs which have been developed in the era of a divided humanity. These are the days of titanic spiritual struggle. A new world is coming to birth. As the old one passes, in passion and violence, have no regrets. Be thankful and radiant, confident that the shining day of human brotherhood is here."

Mrs. Seto addressed groups at the homes of Mrs. Elizabeth Hay, Mr. and Mrs. Max Greevin, Mrs. Ruth Goddard Bixler and Mrs. Cornelius Haggarty.

Word From Pat Walls

News has been received in Carmel that the Pat Walls (Rosalind Sharpe) are living in the village of Lista de Correos, Chapala, Jalisco, in Mexico, where they are one of the three American couples in residence. Rosalind has filled pages on the difficulties of house-keeping in a small village, saying that the main topic of conversation is, "What shall we do with the garbage?"

She writes that she has seen Zoe Kernick, who is also living on Lake Chapala in the village of Ajicjic.

The Walls report that they are both busy, Rosalind writing, but that they are still "getting used" to Mexico.

Kit At Badger

Francis Whitaker reports that Kit Whitman, former Carmel resident, is hostess for the Curry Company at Badger Pass Ski Lodge and says she is always delighted for a chance to have a talk with skiing Carmelites. Mr. Whitaker took his daughter and son-in-law, Sheila and Winn Hutchings, on a two-day ski jaunt to Badger last weekend. Mrs. Whitaker remained home, enjoying the company of three-months-old grandson, Rome. The skiers said the snow was "in perfect shape" and the new tee lift is a great success. Mr. Whitaker made 25 trips on it Saturday.

"Truth" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, January 23, with the Golden Text taken from Psalms: "Thou, O Lord, art a God full of compassion, and gracious, long-suffering, and plenteous in mercy and truth" (86:15).

The following citations are included in the sermon:

The Bible: "And after these things I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying Alleluia; Salvation, and glory, and honour, and power, unto the Lord our God: For true and righteous are his judgments" (Revelation 19: 1, 2).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The conservative theory, long believed, is that there are two factors, matter and mind, uniting on some impossible basis. This theory would keep truth and error always at war. Victory would perch on neither banner. On the other hand, Christian Science speedily shows Truth to be triumphant" (p. 492).

Frisbie Children Stranded In South Seas

most of his island life, is a mere pinpoint on the map. Of the 600 inhabitants of the 1,260-acre atoll, he was the only white man, paralleling the existence of Tahiti's James Norman Hall, co-author of Mutiny on the Bounty, with whom he became friendly and corresponded frequently.

Robert Dean Frisbie was 53 when he died in November, victim of a septic hypodermic needle. His legacy to his children, oldest of whom is now 18, was a pile of unfinished manuscripts and debts of $4,700, which absorbed the advances on his forthcoming volume, Dawn Sails North. His two boys are now in New Zealand, while the girls are on Rarotonga, Cook Islands, where Florence ("Johnny"), a slim girl of 16, is finishing his uncompleted novel, Night of the Moon.

For 11 years Johnny has been the mother of the family, pulling it through poverty, hurricanes, wanderlust, filariasis, and rejection slips. Though her English is crossed with French, Samoan, and Cook Island dialects, she is the author of Miss Ulysses from Puka Puka, an autobiography published two years ago by Macmillan. Her first concern now is to make enough money for passage to New Zealand, so that the girls may join their brothers and go to school.

Johnny has enough material for a dozen books. Frisbie took his family to Mangala, Manahiki, Penrhyn, Apia in British Samoa, Tahiti, Moorea, Suvarov, and Pago Pago. Once they set up housekeeping on one of the Northern Cook Islands, an uninhabited and bleak button of land in the Eastern Pacific. The next day a hurricane struck, completely hiding the island under 20-foot waves. Frisbie lashed his children high in the firmest palm trees, and several months later a passing schooner found the family alive and living on coconuts, crabs, birds' eggs, and shark oil.

They lay over at trading posts, a leper colony, and remote military supply bases. They found remains of pirates in stumps of trees and brown-eyed Circes who vamped Johnny's father.

These, and other adventures are recounted simply and convincingly in Johnny's autobiography, Miss Ulysses. The source of most of the material was her diary, written in three languages.

"While writing . . . Johnny's head was confused by a knowledge of many languages," her father says in his introduction, "among them Samoan, Fijian, English, and of course Rarotongan and Puka Pukan. . . I have helped in editing and translating from Polynesian languages to English. The finished work is, I believe, unique in South Sea literature, being the first book, to my knowledge, written by a native South Sea Islander."

Frisbie's last book, Dawn Sails North, was released January 20 by Doubleday, Doran. The children will receive about 50 cents for each copy sold, according to their aunt, Mrs. Elaine Gardiner of Carmel. As soon as funds are available, friends and relatives plan to send the girls to New Zealand, where the boys, Charles, 18, and Jakey, 15, have a small income from jobs on a stock ranch.

—John Upton.

Peninsula People Called As Witnesses In Fr. Serra Trial

Three Peninsula residents appeared to testify in the Father Serra court hearings at Carmel Mission this week, when sessions were resumed to determine if the early California priest shall be made America's second saint.

Lady Maria Antonia Field and Mrs. Emma Ambrosia, long local residents closely associated with Mission affairs, and Harry Downie, restorer of the Carmel Mission and superintendent of restoration projects in this area who appeared at earlier hearings, appeared before the ecclesiastical court in closed sessions involving nearly 30 witnesses. All are being questioned regarding local traditions and beliefs regarding Father Serra's life and activities.

Following a week of hearings here, the court will move to Fresno, where testimony as to Serra's writings will be considered, according to the Reverend Eric O'Brien, vice postulator for Father Serra's cause.

Expected to attend here are Bishop A. S. Willinger, Monterey-Fresno diocese, and Dr. Herbert Bolton, California historian.

Mrs. Smith Donates Indian Collection

Price's talk voted to assume the support of a Navajo child for a year, at $72, and by taking an offering immediately they raised $46.40, of which they gave $36 to Mr. Price for the first half year. They decided also to seek the cooperation of the Men of the Wayfarer.

They accepted Miss Smith's generous offer of the Indian handicraft, and decided that before the collection should be sold it would be put on exhibition in the social room of the church and a silver offering will be taken to add to the Navajo fund. Additional assistance will be provided by establishing contact with a local committee on the reservation for exchange of information and suggestion of activities for self-help among the Navajos.

FRANK LLOYDS MOVING

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd are busy moving their family from their San Carlos home to one on Mission street, between Thirteenth and Santa Lucia, where they expect to stay until they build in the Carmel Highlands. Jennifer, Skipper, Lucinda and Marty are expressing unqualified approval of the new quarters.

The Rev. Seccombe Reports Growth Of All Saints' Parish

Wednesday night 108 parishioners of All Saints' Episcopal Church met for the annual parish meeting and turkey dinner. Mrs. Sidney Williams and her helpers did an almost miraculous feat in serving so many so quickly from the tiny kitchen of the crowded parish house.

After dinner the rector, the Reverend Alfred B. Seccombe, introduced many new members who were warmly welcomed. He gave his people much good news, in tune with the happy mood of the evening. In two years there has been a 50 per cent increase in the number of communicants and the Sunday School has grown from 25 to 76 pupils.

Reports from the Vestry and the Women's Auxiliary in all its activities followed. The first report was a great success. It was given by Susan Trevett, aged 8, with all the fearlessness and charm which her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Richard Johnson, used to display on the stage of the Golden Bough Theater. She reported on St. Margaret's Guild, a group of children who take care of the children's altar. They have collected $66.37 for their charities. The secretary of the Vestry, G. H. Burnette's report was read by Ashley E. Stetson. The report of the treasurer, Jack Marsh Laughlin, followed, then the report of the Every Member Canvass, given by Mark Taplin.

Mrs. R. Ellis Roberts, the retiring secretary, told of the Women's Auxiliary's year of work and pleasure and of the Auxiliary's happiness in the presence and help of so many new members. The success of the rummage sale and bazaar had made it possible to increase their pledges to parish and diocesan work and charities and missionary work by nearly four times since 1946 and to add many new projects. The treasurer, Mrs. Leon O. Fisher, then gave her report and handed a U. S. Savings bond for $1,000 from the Auxiliary, for the building fund, to the rector.

Mrs. Walter Lehmann told of the work, done with the Church of the Wayfarer, for World Relief. The remarkable amount of over 2,600 pounds of cleaned and mended clothing and shoes had been shipped this year. Miss Mary Barnes reported on the Missionary Society, another joint activity with the Wayfarer Church, and Carmel's oldest society. Mrs. Vera Peck Millis reported on the United Thank Offering for Mrs. F. Garner Boice. The U. T. O.'s funds are used for "teaching, preaching and healing" by women workers at home and abroad. Miss Flora Stewart's report for the Altar Guild and George Ziegler's for the Church School were read by Mr. Seccombe. Mrs. James P. McNeill told of the satisfactory state of the Young People's Fellowship and of their work and plans.

Four new members were elected to the Vestry, to replace members whose term of office expired this year, and who cannot be re-elected for a year. The new vestrymen are Major General E. G. Chapman, retired commander of the 13th Airborne Division, Bruce Bacon, J. Hampton Hoge, and Frederick C. Elstob. Alfred Weldon, retiring after many years of faithful service as junior warden, was elected junior warden emeritus, with acclaim, the company standing. The retiring members of the Vestry were thanked for their admirable help and work.

Four delegates and four alternates were elected to attend the Diocesan and Women's Auxiliary conferences at Grace Cathedral in San Francisco on February 1, 2, and 3. The delegates are Mrs. J. L. Piper, Admiral A. C. Bennett, Ronald Ogilvie, and J. Hampton Hoge. Alternates are Mrs. Bennett, Col. G. W. C. Whiting, Frederick Elstob and Sidney Williams.

The last report, on the building fund, was given by Captain Archer M. Allen, senior warden. Though much remains to be done, he feels the outlook is hopeful and the building can begin the last of this year or early in 1950, when the first $100,000 has been contributed. Especial thanks were given to Mr. and Mrs. George Hart for their great generosity.
